

National Capital Radio & Television Museum Library Journal/Periodical Holdings

Update of October 2, 2025

For more specific information on holdings or to inquire about donations, contact:

NCRTV Museum Librarian:

Brian Belanger
Museum: (301) 390-1020
Home: (240) 477-8906
Email: bbelanger@ncrtv.org

New donations of magazines and journals arrive fairly often, and this web listing is updated periodically. Contact the museum if the item you want is not listed here, in case it just arrived recently.

In many cases it is difficult to determine whether the magazines for a given year represent a complete set because some of the more obscure publications came out at irregular intervals and sometimes months were skipped. So, for example, if it appears that we are missing the June issue, it is possible that there was no June issue of that particular publication that year.

Researchers may visit the Museum to use the library and may make copies of items for a modest fee. On a time available basis, the librarian may be able to copy items for people who cannot visit the museum in person. Most journals are not stored at the museum itself but rather at a remote location several miles from the museum, so if you plan to come to the museum to do research, make an appointment so the items you wish to examine can be brought to the main building.

In addition to the listings below, the Library has Rider Radio Manuals Volumes 1-23, Nearly all Sams Photofacts, and manufacturer service manuals from companies such as DuMont, Hallicrafters, Philco, RCA, Zenith, and many others. Catalogs from companies such as Allied Radio, Radio Shack, Lafayette Radio, Heathkit, and others are also available.

White's Radio Log

Note: Charles White began publishing in the 1920s as White's Triple List of Radio Broadcasting Stations. Later sponsors such as The Enna Jettick shoe company and later, General Electric supported the publication. In 1936 White started his own publishing company, C. DeWitt White Co. White died in 1957 and his estate sold the rights to Science and Mechanics Publishing. That company then sold the rights to Davis Publishing, and for many years in the 1960s, White's Radio Log was published as a special section of Davis' magazine, Radio-TV Experimenter, rather than a separate publication. In the 1970s, White's Radio Log appeared in Communications World, which ceased publication in 1981. Around 1984, Worldwide Publications, Inc. resurrected White's Radio Log.
